

Have you ever been next to a person on a cell phone that could not hear the person on the other end, they start talking louder and louder. And the NEXTEL phone that keeps beeping. Do not allow the phones on aircraft. You can wait until you get off the plane to make or receive that unimportant call and let people get away from them. Nothing is that important that it can not wait, and what could you do at 30,000 feet anyway!
